Collective Rights Management of Copyright in Canada

Why is this question of collectives pressing to librarians right now?

All school libraries in Canada except those in Quebec have been part of the tariff process since before 2006…

All government libraries in the provinces and territories have become part of the tariff process during 2010…

All college and university libraries in Canada have also become part of the tariff process during 2010…

Public libraries may be brought into it soon…

The tariff process is completely and fundamentally different from the process of negotiating licenses – even negotiating licenses with a collective…
Collectives have long existed in the music industry --

- Canadian Performing Rights Society 1926
  - 1935 – Copyright Appeal Board created for these rights

- Composers Authors & Publishers Association of Canada (CAPAC) 1946

- BMI Canada 1940

- PROCAN 1978

- SOCAN 1990

- 1988 - Copyright Act amendments
In 1988, Parliament changed the Copyright Act and encouraged more collectives to become active -

- “Collectives” represent copyright holders.
- If the Copyright Act in 1988 did not exempt copyright holders from the Canadian Competition Act, “cartels” of copyright “sellers” would be illegal as anti-competitive in Canada.
- It is only after 1988 that collectives in Canada were formed that directly impacted upon the lives of librarians…

- “Consortia” represent libraries who are copyright users.
- In 1988, Parliament only exempted copyright holders from the rigours of the Competition Act: forming collectives is specifically allowed and encouraged by the Copyright Act.
- Copyright users are not exempt from the Competition Act and thus it might be thought that the legal position of library consortia, vis a vis copyright, was problematic.

- See Catherine A. Maskell, “Consortia: anti-competitive or in the public good?,” (2008) 26(2) Library Hi-Tech 164-183 for the answers to this question…
Collectives and the Copyright Board of Canada

• Librarians have had experience with Cancopy (now AccessCopyright) and other collectives since 1988 – but have not experienced the Copyright Board until recently…

• Why do many libraries find themselves involved with the Copyright Board now?

s. 70.12 of the Copyright Act (Part VII)
A collective society may, for the purpose of setting out by license the royalties and terms and conditions relating to classes of uses,
(a) file a proposed tariff with the Board; or
(b) enter into agreements with users.

s. 70.2(1) of the Copyright Act (Part VII)
Where a collective society and any person [or organization]… are unable to agree on the royalties to be paid for the right to the act… either may, after giving notice to the other, apply to the Board to fix the royalties and their related terms and conditions.
Who are the Copyright Board of Canada?

The Board's decisions from 1990 to 1994 have been published by Carswell (Copyright Board Reports 1990-1994). These decisions are reproduced in this site and respect the page numbering of the publication.

A compilation of the Copyright Appeal Board's decisions (1935-1989) is being prepared for publication.
There is not always a collective that can represent a rightsholder’s right:

The collectives each represent only one or two rights, in respect of certain kinds of works. Some rights have no collective to represent them. Some works do not find themselves in collective repertoires…

The Copyright Board of Canada lists about 35 Canadian collectives on its website:
at http://www.cb-cda.gc.ca/societies/index-e.html

National Film Board – represents its own repertoire (without being part of a collective) CBC – represents its own repertoire (without being part of a collective)
The Copyright Board website lists more than 30 collectives --

The following are involved in rights management associated with “works” under s.3:

1. Access Copyright
2. ACF – Audio Cine Films
3. AVLA – Audio-Video Licensing Agency
4. CARCC – Canadian Artists’ Representation Copyright Collective
5. CBRA – Canadian Broadcasters Rights Agency
6. CMRRA – Canadian Musical Reproduction Rights Agency
7. Criterion Pictures
8. COPIBEC – Societe quebeciose de gestion collective des droits de reproduction
9. CRC – Canadian Retransmission Collective
10. CRRA – Canadian Retransmission Right Association
11. ERCC – Education Rights Collective of Canada
12. FWS – FWS Join Sports Claimants
13. MLB – Major League Baseball Collective of Canada
14. PGC – Playwrights Guild of Canada
15. SOCAN – Society of Composers, Authors and Music Publishers of Canada
16. SACD – Societe des auteurs et compositeurs dramatiques
17. SODRAC – Society for Reproduction Rights of Authors, Composers and Publishers in Canada

The right (for owners or authors) – and risk (for users)

Section 27 (1) It is an infringement of copyright for any person to do, without the consent of the owner of the copyright, anything that by this Act only the owner of the copyright has the right to do.

Section 28.1 Any act or omission that is contrary to any of the moral rights of the author of a work is, in the absence of consent by the author, an infringement of the moral rights.

BUT there are also USERS (and intermediaries’) RIGHTS in the Copyright Act…
 HOW DOES A COPYRIGHTHOLDER ENFORCE RIGHTS?

Statutory enforcement is provided in 3 ways:

1. criminal sanctions

2. provisions for copyright holders to sue for infringement (civil redress)
   - And Copyright Holders can ALSO sue for contract violations where the terms of a license agreement are not being met by users...

3. administrative remedies – mandating Customs to seize infringing goods

In 1988 the criminal sanctions were dramatically beefed up –

- a demonstration to persuade
- In the summer of 2007, the Criminal Code was amended to prohibit the copying of movies by recording in movie theatres…new s.432 and certain streamlining of civil enforcement has occurred

- coercion through increasing the bargaining power of the copyright holder?
What are the choices that users of works or other subject matter can make?

1. They can rely on “user rights,” to make “exempt” uses, or they can rely on the philanthropy of rightsholders.

   free for users – no $ value for rightsholders

2. Where user rights are not extensive enough and permissions are not available (at all, or, in their eyes, affordably), users can curtail uses of copyright material.

   less use for users – no $ value for rightsholders

3. They can use material without permission and risk enforcement.

   risk assessment for users – costs of enforcement for rightsholders

4. Users can buy permissions for uses of materials.

   costly, temporary for users – $ value for rightsholders
What are the choices that users of works or other subject matter can make?

1. They can rely on “user rights,” to make “exempt” uses, or they can rely on the philanthropy of rightsholders.
   - Free for users – no $ value for rightsholders

2. Where user rights are not extensive enough and permissions are not available (at all, or, in their eyes, affordably), users can curtail uses of copyright material.
   - Less use for users – no $ value for rightsholders

3. They can use material without permission and risk enforcement.
   - Risk assessment for users – costs of enforcement for rightsholders

4. Users can buy permissions for uses of materials.
   - Costly, temporary for users – $ value for rightsholders
How do users get permissions?

1. Through permissions given in advance (“open content licensing” or “creative commons”) (FREE) or

2. Through permissions negotiated with copyright collectives in blanket licenses (if there is a copyright collective that represents the rights in works that the user is seeking and where rightsholders have agreed to have the collective represent them) ($$ TARIFF – Board’s decision) or

3. Through permissions negotiated directly, from time to time, with rightsholders (assuming they have not given a collective the exclusive right to represent them with respect to the rights the user wants) ($$ ROYALTY or FREE – rightsholder’s choice).
The value of choice #2 for rightsholders: the Copyright Board’s formula for setting tariffs:

- Take all copying done within the institution
  - (determined by actual surveying, using statistically robust sampling)
- Subtract all copies for which the rightsholders should not be compensated
  - (a) because the materials in question were not “works” or works in which the rightsholders in the collective have rights (eg materials created by schools for themselves, in which they hold copyright)
  - AND
  - (b) because although the materials in question are prima facie materials in which the collectives’ members have rights, there are users’ rights (exceptions) which mean the rightsholders are not exercise their rights for these uses (fair dealing, rights for “Educational Institutions” or “LAMs”)

SUB- TOTAL: NUMBER OF COMPENSABLE COPIES

\[ \times \text{the value of each copy as determined on economic evidence by the Copyright Board} \]

\[ \text{EQUALS THE AMOUNT OF THE TARIFF EACH INSTITUTION IS TO PAY TO THE COLLECTIVE} \]
The situation of the K-12 Tariff for 2005-2009

The Ministers of Education (the users), and Access Copyright (the copyright holders)

The Copyright Board rendered its decision in the tariff proceeding June 26, 2009.

The Federal Court of Appeal rendered its decision in the application for judicial review (not appeal) from the decision of the Copyright Board on July 23, 2010 (Mr. Justice Trudel writing for himself and Chief Justice Blais and Justice Noël) – only slight variance to Copyright Board’s decision.

The Ministers of Education are seeking leave from the Supreme Court to appeal (File No.33888)

Setting the amount schools needed to pay the owners of copyright in print materials for photocopying during the years 2005-2009 everywhere in Canada except in Quebec

This replaced the Pan Canadian Schools/Cancopy License Agreement agreed between the Ministers of Education and Cancopy (without going to the Board) that lasted from 1999 until 2009…

Access Copyright’s K-12 proposal for 2010-2012

Tariff fee proposed is $15.00/FTE student—up from the $5.16/FTE student appealed to the Federal Court of Canada and to be adjusted slightly by remission back to the Board on the question of whether exam copying was actually not available in a medium that is appropriate for the purpose and thus not compensable (which would reduce the tariff now payable of $5.16 a bit)

(but note enlarged scope of “product” AccessCopyright is offering in the 2010-2012 tariff for schools)

Canadian Ministers of Education (CMEC) has indicated its intention to oppose...

Access Copyright has not sought a hearing date with the Copyright Board to pursue this new tariff
Access Copyright’s proposed 2005-2009 and 2010-2014 Provincial and Territorial Government Tariffs

- Proposed fee is $24.00/FTE civil servant
- Coverage of the proposed Tariff is similar to Schools Tariff

Presumably AccessCopyright expects less government copying to be identified as non-compensable because of the users’ rights in the Act (the difference between seeking $15/student and $24/civil servant)

The Supreme Court has said:
“It is only if a library were unable to make out the fair dealing exception under section 29 that it would need to turn to the Copyright Act to prove that it qualified for the library exception.” (LSUC case)
If Fair Dealing Users’ Rights are enlarged and if Educational and LAMs Exceptions are expanded?

Again, what AccessCopyright is asking from Post-Secondary Institutions...

... and how Bill C-32 might change the equation – but only within the range of what is compensable...

Bill C-32 is silent on collectives…

To give colleges and universities the protection under tariffs that they had negotiated under the earlier licenses, the Copyright Act would have to be changed

1. To say that contracts cannot override fair dealing rights

And

2. Where a collective exists, it represents that class of rightsholders on a worldwide basis unless the rightsholder specifically opts out (the extended repertoire or extended licensing system)

Bill C-32 proposed neither of these changes to the Copyright Act…
